Course Description/Rationale

This course emphasizes the creation and performance of music at a level consistent with previous experience and is aimed at developing technique, sensitivity, and imagination. Students will develop musical literacy skills by using the creative and critical analysis processes in composition, performance, and a range of reflective and analytical activities. Students will develop an understanding of the conventions and elements of music and of safe practices related to music, and will develop a variety of skills transferable to other areas of their life.

Overall Curriculum Expectations

Research and Inquiry Skills

- Explore topics related to personal life management, and formulate questions to guide their research;
- Create research plans, and locate and select information relevant to their chosen topics, using appropriate social science research and inquiry methods;
- Assess, record, analyse, and synthesize information gathered through research and inquiry;
- Communicate the results of their research and inquiry clearly and effectively, and reflect on and evaluate their research, inquiry, and communication skills.

Self and Others

- Demonstrate an understanding of the personal qualities and skills necessary to make the transition from adolescence to adulthood;
- Describe the elements of successful planning for employment;
- Demonstrate an understanding of effective communication skills and their role in building the healthy relationships that support independent living.

Daily Living Skills

- Demonstrate an understanding of effective decision-making processes and their role in independent living;
- Explain and demonstrate the use of basic money-management skills and techniques needed to manage personal financial resources effectively;
- Describe and demonstrate the use of basic principles and techniques of effective household management.

Personal and Social Responsibilities

- Demonstrate an understanding of the role of personal responsibility in independent living, and of the strategies that can be used to meet individual needs;
- Demonstrate an understanding of the rights and responsibilities of employers and employees, including both personal and legal responsibilities;
- Demonstrate an understanding of the role that responsible consumerism plays in living independently.

Economic and Personal Finances

- Demonstrate an understanding of how global, national, and community economic factors affect the individual's financial circumstances;
- Describe ways in which financial institutions can assist in the management of personal finances;
- Explain the benefits and costs of working.

Course Content

Unit	Length
1. Transition to Adulthood	32.5 hours
2. Working and Managing Money	41.5 hours
3. Living on Your Own	36 hours

Total	110 hours

Unit Descriptions

Unit 1 – Transition to Adulthood

In this unit, students learn about the qualities and skills needed in order to become successful, healthy adults. They practice effective communication skills and learn how communication can affect relationships. This includes thinking and learning about how different cultures might communicate in different ways. Lastly, they explore the factors that influence the decision making process including family and local community values and how people make effective decisions for independent living.

Unit 2 – Working and Managing Money

Students learn about the economic and personal advantages and costs of working. The rights and responsibilities of employers and employees are examined. Students investigate how financial institutions, including local institutions such as Northmart or a community store, can assist in managing money. In addition, they learn about different money management skills, and how they can be used effectively.

Unit 3 – Living on Your Own

In this last unit, students look at the responsibilities of living independently and what people can do to meet those responsibilities. They practice some of the skills needed to live independently and manage, or be a respectful part of a multi-generational household. Considerations (such as local availability, shipping through cargo or on ice roads etc.) for making responsible consumer decisions are examined and students have an opportunity to use this knowledge for purchasing household items.

Teaching/Learning Strategies

This course is organized into an eight-week series of lessons and activities that is presented to students in remote northern communities via the internet. The eighth week is used for course consolidation, review, and the final examination. Teacher and students communicate over the internet through timely activity feedback, emails, messages, video and audio calls. Classroom mentors assume the role of liaison between the teacher and student while also supporting a holistic approach to motivate, engage and support each individual student.

A variety of strategies will be used in the online delivery of this course. Some instructional strategies include:

- Pre-teaching of key vocabulary;
- Creating graphic organizers;
- Cooperative learning;
- Group discussion;
- Case studies;
- Independent research.

Learning goals will be discussed at the beginning of each assignment and success criteria will be provided to students. The success criteria are used to develop the assessment tools in this course, including rubrics and checklists.

Evaluation

The final grade will be determined as follows (Ontario Ministry of Education, 2010):

- Seventy per cent of the grade will be based on evaluation conducted throughout the course. This portion of the grade should reflect the student's most consistent level of achievement throughout the course, although special consideration should be given to more recent evidence of achievement.

- Thirty percent of the grade will be based on a final evaluation administered at or towards the end of the course. This evaluation will be based on evidence from one or a combination of the following: an examination, a performance, an essay, and/or another method of evaluation suitable to the course content. The final evaluation allows the student an opportunity to demonstrate comprehensive achievement of the overall expectations for the course (p. 41).

Assessment/Evaluation Strategies

A variety of assessment and evaluation methods, strategies and tools are required as appropriate to the expectation being assessed. These include diagnostic, formative, and summative within the course and within each unit.

Assessment for learning and assessment as learning is obtained through a variety of means, including the following:

- Ongoing descriptive feedback (e.g., descriptive feedback on students' plans for the class celebration);
- Self-assessment (e.g., weekly self-assessment of learning, relative to specific course content as well as in contextual school, community and Land based learning);
- Peer assessment (e.g., peer feedback on personal goals related to course specific content and generalised throughout the school day);
- Mentor observations (e.g. of specific course expectations during Land based and cultural activities as well as during course specific activities);
- Conversations with student on a regular basis to verbalize observations, ask questions, and clarify understanding.

Evidence of student achievement (assessment of learning) is collected from various sources, including the following:

- Ongoing observations of most consistent work, with consideration given to most recent work (e.g., evidence of meeting expectations for food safety during set-up for class celebration);
- Conversations with students (e.g., discussion about personal wants and needs relative to specific family and local community values as well as values in the Westernized world);
- Summative unit activities (e.g., applying for a job, creating a personal budget (taking into consideration local variances in northern supply / demand, prices etc.), planning a class celebration);
- Culminating activity (My Blueprint portfolio);
- Exam.

The Ministry of Education's 2010 document, Growing Success, outlines the seven fundamental principles that guide best practice in the assessment and evaluation of students. KiHS teachers use practices that:

- are fair, transparent, and equitable for all students;
- support all students, including those with special education needs, those who are learning the language of instruction (English or French), and those who are First Nation, Métis, or Inuit;
- are carefully planned to relate to the curriculum expectations and learning goals and, as much as possible, to the interests, learning styles and preferences, needs, and experiences of all students;
- are communicated clearly to students and parents at the beginning of the course and at other points throughout the school year or course;
- are ongoing, varied in nature, and administered over a period of time to provide multiple opportunities for students to demonstrate the full range of their learning;
- provide ongoing descriptive feedback that is clear, specific, meaningful, and timely to support improved learning and achievement;
- develop students' self-assessment skills to enable them to assess their own learning, set specific goals, and plan next steps for their learning (p.6).

Program Planning

This course is offered to Indigenous students living in isolated, northern Ontario communities. It is offered by qualified teachers in a blended classroom with a balance of academic, wellness, land-based learning, local language and culture to support the success of the whole student. This course uses the internet for instruction, demonstration and research. It utilizes a student-centered semi-virtual classroom which capitalizes on the strengths of internet program delivery to minimize the disadvantages of geographic remoteness.

Students are presented with 1320 minutes of instruction/activity via the internet over the period of one week. All lessons, assignments, questions and course material is presented in this manner, with approved print materials available as a student resource in each classroom. The student and instructor communicate via the internet, while a classroom mentor (a fully qualified teacher) assists students in completing tasks in a timely manner and provides support as required.

Indigenous and local content is used throughout the course to meet students' learning needs. Opportunities for outdoor activities and land-based learning are also incorporated and students are encouraged to use local knowledge in their products. Considerations are made to the learning preferences of the student population and lessons can be adjusted for individual students as required. Opportunities have been provided for students to apply ideas and concepts encountered in this course to their lives as an individual and as a member of a First Nations community. Teachers consult the Ontario Ministry of Education policies, guidelines and important initiatives when planning a comprehensive program in this area.
